

Seminar on corporate law

November 17, 2007

A seminar on 'Raising Funds through Capital Markets' was organised by the Chandigarh office of FoxMandal Little at a local hotel in Sector 17 here today.

Manish Kumar Sharma, head of capital markets practice of the law firm, gave a presentation covering legal aspects of fundraising through various means which included domestic capital markets and overseas capital markets. He also elaborated on the eligibility and regulatory requirements for a company planning to get listed in a domestic stock exchange and also in a foreign stock exchange.

Anuj Kanwar, associate vice-president, global payments and cash management, HSBC, spoke about a banker's role and responsibility towards collections and refunds in a public issue. There were also brief discussions on HSBC's expertise in handling mergers and acquisitions along with other structured transactions.

Earlier, Rajeev Takkar, branch head of FoxMandal Little, welcomed the guests and introduced the speaker and FoxMandal Little to the audience.